

Professor Katherine Richardson, University of Copenhagen

Katherine Richardson serves as Vice Dean at the Faculty of Science, University of Copenhagen. Katherine Richardson is professor in biological oceanography. Her research focuses on the importance of biological processes in the ocean for the absorption of CO₂ from the atmosphere.

Katherine Richardson is chair of the Scientific Steering Committee for the IARU Congress "Climate Change: Global Risks, Challenges and Decisions", on 10 – 12 March 2009, Copenhagen. She has been active both as member and chair of several national and international Research Committees and Advisory Boards. She is currently chairman of the Danish Commission on Climate Change Policy.